

Infant & Toddler Workshop Opportunity!

Infant and Toddler Curriculum Training
Saturday, October 4 and Saturday, October 18, 2008
At Oakland Schools from 8:30 AM to 3:30 PM

Day 1 - Saturday, October 4, 2008

This workshop will focus on Infants and Toddlers in Care: What do they need and how do they learn? We will begin the day investigating the similarities and differences of preschool programs and infant/toddler programs. We will also discuss the elements of quality in and early childhood program with regards to the MI Early Childhood Standards of Quality for Infants and Toddlers. Other topics include: sensory motor learning; ingredients of active learning; sensory motor learning; and engaging infants and toddlers in active learning.

Day 2 - Saturday, October 18, 2008

The second day of this workshop will focus on Adult Support for Active Learning with Infants and Toddlers. We will begin the day with a short review of Day 1 and then move on to the key experiences of active learning; sensory motor learning; and the MI Standards of Quality for Infants and Toddlers. We will also hear how intrinsic motivation affects learning outcomes and how adults can support very young children in active learning experiences. We will explore different materials; video; and apply active learning concepts.
